Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Swarm trapping is another aspect to free bees that entails catching that runaway swarm even when I m not around and in places I can t always be. I ve had my share of experiences where the swarm departed for some unknown destination, and then I ve wondered about the swarms that come out of bee trees in remote areas where no human being was able to discover them and call me. And what about the swarms that people find but they don t know who to call? Eventually those swarms will leave for a hollow tree or somebody s garden shed. How can I get those swarms I don t even know about? Then I began to think about creating some kind of a temporary location that would attract the scout bees so I wouldn t necessarily have to be present to retrieve the swarm, or if I arrived a minute too late, how I might still catch that swarm by setting a trap over the hill or in various locations around the community? Think about it. You get a swarm call. The swarm has left the hive and is clustered on a rose bush in someone s yard. There s a scared and nervous homeowner who wants the bees removed right now. The scout bees are out looking for a new location which they can call home. The scout bees are searching diligently as you ask some simple questions over the phone about how high the swarm is and how long they ve been there. You get organized and start to drive to the swarm site. As you drive to the swarm location, the scout bees...
