Government Accountability Office, 2005 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)64199278 Subject: Offshore outsourcing. Excerpt: . . . non-core services can enable companies to focus their resources on their core functions. By outsourcing non-core functions to overseas firms that specialize in them, businesses may also experience improvements in the quality of these functions. Although firms may have many incentives to offshore, they may also face disincentives to offshore. Offshoring has several costs associated with it, including costs to start up an offshore operation and to manage and train an offshore workforce. In addition, some experts have noted that wages of workers in developing countries are rising more rapidly than U. S. wages, 11 therefore shrinking the cost savings of offshoring over time. Furthermore, offshoring carries potential risks, such as possible political instability in overseas locations, less reliable civil infrastructure, exchange rate volatility, less developed legal and regulatory systems, and risks to intellectual property. In the last few decades, the Congress has enacted various pieces of Legislation Enacted in legislation related to trade and increasing global interdependence, Response to Trade-Related primarily due to...
