O. , 2003. OCLC Number: (OCoLC)53834700 Subject: Broadband communication systems -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 11 Now, Ted, if you will flip the next chart, I will show you what exists today on the ground, in the ground, ready to go to work, if we simply deregulate. Here is the fiber that already exists ready to go to work for Louisiana in the ground, that is prohibited from delivering high speed services to the communities of my State. The fiber is represented by the red lines that you see. If you look, you will also see some blue lines across the State. Those are the old long distance LATA lines. Those are the lines drawn by the court to separate local and long distance. Those LATA lines are currently being used to prevent through regulation the delivery of broadband services across those red lines, the four-lane highways that are already in the ground, ready to serve constituents in my State, but cannot...
