Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Historical Address at the Sheffield Centennial Commemoration: June 18th, 1876 On this festival occasion you have called upon me for a sketch of the local history which prompts and makes appropriate this our own peculiar Centennial celebration. Although a native, to the manner born, I feel myself but slightly qualified for the task. The theme is not the growth, development, and straggles for existence of a nation; it is of a simple country village, whose fields have ever been those of the husbandman, freely visited, indeed, by the dews of heaven, but unstained by the red drops of war; whose harvests wave not O er roots set deep in battle-graves; whose modest halls have never resounded with the eloquence of statesmen, nor been the scenes where the nation s destiny was at stake. These are qualifications which he who addresses you, cannot claim to possess. Removed from this his boyhood s home almost in childhood, his youth and manhood have been spent in regions far away. His way of life, his pursuits, and his associations, have had little in them to remind him - much to cause forgetfulness - of the home where he was...
